1 The interviews were conducted primarily between March 2010 and June 2010. In total I collected forty two interviews. All the people referred in the thesis are listed in this section, but some appearing in this section are not mentioned in the thesis. Although the thesis did not incorporate all the interviews conducted during the above stated period, those interviews greatly helped me to understand various aspects of migrant lives and different ways of solving the problems they face in Japan.
